We invite interested developers and builders to review the Draft Development Standards on the Atlas Log \(cdaid.org/atlaslog\) dated February 28, 2019.

The Development Opportunity brochure is also available for review on the Atlas Log \(cdaid.org/atlaslog\). We will also post FAQs on the Atlas Log based on questions received during the Open House once the list of questions and answers has been compiled.

The "Viking Ship" bike rack, by artist Tyree Riggs, was installed mid-July, at the lower level entrance to the library. The goal was to have a bike rack that was both artistic and functional and that would entice patrons to park their bikes at the rack.

"It's a Cutthroat World," by mural artists Todd & Cain Benson, was recently completed at the Centennial Trail Underpass located near the confluence of the North Idaho Centennial Trail and the Prairie Trail (off of Atlas Road).

"Soaring with Friends" and "Swimming with Friends," by artist David Boyer of Reno, NV, at the Seltice/Grand Mill roundabout and the Seltice/Atlas roundabout, is complete! The initial feedback from citizens has been extremely positive.

"The Idaho Lumberjack," has been installed along Front Avenue. The sculpture was donated by Idaho Forest Group, and will join "The American Worker" and "The Idaho Farmer." How do collection systems work? Most importantly, the system is designed for the health and well-being of our citizens!! It is designed to use gravity to convey the wastewater through a series of pipes down to our wastewater treatment plant in the Fort Grounds area.
